Poster Artist
Luke Dorman of Meow Wolf
Returning after creating the Festival’s iconic 2021 poster, Luke has captured a bit of each of our 50 years in his newest explosion of design. Luke is Meow Wolf’s Principal Graphic Designer and a fine artist. His work has been recognized by Print Magazine, Communication Arts and The Society of Typographic Arts.

Each year, Telluride’s Guest Director serves as a key collaborator in the Festival’s programming decisions, bringing new ideas and overlooked films. Past Guest Directors include Don DeLillo, Barry Jenkins, Jonathan Lethem, Errol Morris, Joshua Oppenheimer, Alexander Payne, and Stephen Sondheim. This year’s six Guest Directors summon memories of the iconic moments of festivals past, in recognition of our 50 years. The program descriptions can be found on pages 28-29.

Alfonso Cuarón, Adam Curtis, Ethan Hawke, Rachel Kushner, Steve McQueen, and Mira Nair

Alfonso Cuarón has brought films including GRAVITY (2013) and ROMA (2018) to the Festival. He is also producer of the Telluride entries PAN’S LABYRINTH (2006), BIUTIFUL (2010) and LE PUPILLE (2022).

Ethan Hawke, director of WILDCAT, which screens at this year’s festival, and SEYMOUR: AN INTRODUCTION, which screened in 2014, has found acclaim as an actor in films including TRAINING DAY (2002), BEFORE SUNSET (2005) and BOYHOOD (2015), along with Pedro Almodóvar’s STRANGE WAY OF LIFE, which also plays this year.

Steve McQueen is the recipient of the Turner Prize, the U.K. art world’s highest honor, and an Oscar, for 12 YEARS A SLAVE (2013). He has presented films including HUNGER (2008) and SHAME (2011) at the festival, and this year will screen OCCUPIED CITY.

For 50 years, Anselm Kiefer’s unflinching, unrelenting, often monumental paintings, photographs and sculptures have interrogated the tragic nature of modern German history. “Brutal and exquisite,” the critic Peter Schjeldahl wrote in description, “operatic and hushed.” Now friend Wim Wenders, who began his career at the same time, has crafted a hauntingly beautiful study of Kiefer’s astounding accomplishments. Working again with cinematographer Franz Lustig (PINA), Wenders creates a sensuous 3D immersion into the vast factory-studio spaces where Kiefer works. The film takes its libretto from Paul Celan’s Holocaust-themed poetry as it patiently reconstructs German history, and clarifies the artistic and cultural forces that formed Kiefer’s life-long obsessions. The film feels collaborative; the most moving moments demonstrate the love, understanding and respect of one artist for another. –LG (Germany, 2023, 93m) In person: Wim Wenders

In both works, however, Wenders is giving us images of a life well lived and the possibility of change. He’s reminding us that we don’t have to be hostage to a world of fluff and distraction and that art can give us the medicine we urgently need. This blend of hopefulness and realism has been his signature through more than fifty years of films such as PARIS, TEXAS, WINGS OF DESIRE and THE BUENA VISTA SOCIAL CLUB: he transports us into heartbreaking stories of fractured families and people living on the streets, and yet he’s constantly offering portraits of others—worried angels, the musicians of Cuba, the global photographer Sebastião Salgado, Pope Francis—who dedicate their lives to trying to relieve the pain.

Wenders was, famously, one of the creators of the New German Cinema movement in the 1970s, with his often existential road movies; his examination of loneliness and dreams has taken him from aboriginal Australia to Lisbon. He has worked with some of the leading musicians of our time, given us the transcendent dance performances of Pina Bausch, made films on fashion and architecture, uncovered the soul of Berlin and Tokyo.

But all his wide-ranging explorations have ultimately been lit up by a profound concern with our spiritual well-being. He is—to use a word that he has invoked—a “Menschenfreund,” or friend of all humanity. Hirayama, the heart of PERFECT DAYS, offers an almost saintly vision of steadiness and self-erasure; Anselm Kiefer is among the most combative and even swaggering of artists, ensuring we don’t look away from reality. Both, however, refuse to give in to a world of thoughtlessness and carelessness; each has his own way of finding something disciplined and true. In the end, Wim Wenders is one of our greatest singers of possibility.

–Pico Iyer

The program includes a selection of clips, the presentation of the Silver Medallion and an on-stage interview, followed by ANSELM shown in its entirety on Thursday (see opposite page) and PERFECT DAYS (see opposite page) shown in its entirety on Friday.

Paul (Paul Giamatti), an aging classics professor at an elite New England prep school, is at odds with his students. His rigidly judgmental teaching methods are, to say the least, outdated. When he is thrown together for a long Christmas break with Angus (Dominic Sessa), a smart, charismatic and self-destructive teen, and Mary (Da’Vine Joy Randolph), the school’s grieving cook, we enter territory that reminds us of John Hughes’ THE BREAKFAST CLUB … but David Hemingson’s nuanced script has much more in its mind. Giamatti is effortlessly commanding from the start, and Sessa and Randolph are outstanding. In ABOUT SCHMIDT, SIDEWAYS and NEBRASKA, director Alexander Payne proved himself a master in depicting isolated people forced to confront their fears and illusions. Here, his uncanny grasp of the minute particulars of everyday conflict reaches new depths of both comedy and pain, in a blend reminiscent of Hal Ashby’s finest works. –LG (U.S., 2023, 133m) In person: Alexander Payne

S/Fri 6:15PM - C/Sat 1PM Q&A - G/Sun 9AM

A wired career-woman (played by Dakota Johnson) lands at JFK airport after a painful family reunion in the Midwest. A loquacious cab driver (Sean Penn) who prides himself on his ability to read people drives her towards home. Once they start talking, writer and first-time director Christy Hall takes us to unexpected places, transforming the “Strangers in the Night” format into a deft comedy of ideas—think MY DINNER WITH ANDRE in a cab. Hall’s stellar technical team—cinematographer Phedon Papamichael, editor Lisa Churgin and production designer Kristi Zea—keep the proceedings lively. But the most spectacular element is the actors. Johnson brings a compelling mix of sophisticated intelligence and hardscrabble toughness, while Penn’s character serves, at various points, as a therapist, a priest, and a teasing perceptive friend, while doing something we’ve seen too seldom in his storied career: he radiates comic sweetness. Surprising, passionate and optimistic, Hall has crafted a memorable ride. –LG (U.S., 2023, 101m) In person: Christy Hall

Adam (Andrew Scott) and Harry (Paul Mescal), the sole inhabitants of a large, brand new apartment building, meet one night after a fire alarm echoes through the halls. Adam is a struggling screenwriter attempting to work on a story about his suburban childhood, and his encounter with Harry sends him back to his hometown, where he finds his parents (Jamie Bell and Claire Foy)—preserved at the age they were when he saw them last. Is this a ghost story, or a dream, or something else? Andrew Haigh (LEAN ON PETE, 45 YEARS) has created a quietly expressive and affecting story, plunging us into the tactile and sensuous pleasures of an intoxicating world, one caught between memory and the present, between regret and possibility. –BE (U.K., 2023, 105m) In person: Andrew Haigh

5 The Bikeriders

H/Thu 9:30PM - G/Fri 9:15AM - C/Sat 9:45PM - P/Sun 3:45PM Q&A

Inspired by Danny Lyon’s photographs and interviews from the 1960s, Jeff Nichols’ film charts the rise and fall of an outlaw motorcycle gang. The gang’s founder and leader Johnny (Tom Hardy) struggles to enforce the rules he’s creating; Benny (Austin Butler) is his charismatic but dangerously unpredictable follower; Kathy (Jodie Comer), a no-nonsense outsider to the gang, is alternately fascinated and horrified by the biker lifestyle. The magnificent ensemble includes Boyd Holbrook, Norman Reedus, Mike Faist and frequent Nichols collaborator Michael Shannon. Nichols blends comedy, violence and tenderness with astonishing control, simultaneously celebrating the biker code of loyalty, courage and independence while providing a clear-eyed if sometimes ironic perspective on how their “freedom” threatens other ways of being in the world. Though Nichols’ storytelling summons the golden age of Westerns and gangster films, his sensibility is fully modern. John Ford would approve. –LG (U.S., 2023, 116m) In person: Jeff Nichols
When the Greek filmmaker Yorgos Lanthimos was preparing THE FAVOURITE, his Oscar-winning period piece about a politicized love triangle in Queen Anne’s court, he put his cast through a series of tests. They would read their lines while holding hands in a circle and moving around the room, getting tangled up in each other’s limbs. Dialogue would be read as if they were experiencing labor pains, or as if invisible force fields pushed in on the performers. Occasionally, his trio of A-list movie stars would find themselves engaging in melodramatic exchanges while jumping from one tile of carpet to the next, or rolling around on the floor.

“It resembled nothing of what we actually shot,” Emma Stone noted when THE FAVOURITE played at Telluride in 2018. “[But] it was a very interesting way to learn that we were safe with each other, we could rely on each other, and we knew what we were saying when we started to shoot.”

It’s that combination of the playfully free-spirited, the primal and the purely WTF that has made Lanthimos the sort of celebrated international filmmaker that most of us associate with the glory days of foreign-language cineastes, while also earmarking him as a behind-the-camera collaborator du jour for actors like Stone, Colin Farrell, Rachel Weisz, Olivia Colman, Nicole Kidman and many more. His 2009 breakthrough film DOGTOOTH—about parents who imprison their now-adult children via an elaborate fictional worldview—put him on the proverbial arthouse-cinema map, and since, his mix of absurdist and disturbing has captivated audiences in search of something completely different.

Yet Lanthimos never forgets the human element behind his outré storyline and who-dosed-my-drink visual aesthetic. For example, could anyone else have turned THE LOBSTER (2015), a dystopian tale of people turning into animals if they don’t find their soul mates, into both an existential black comedy and a heartbreaking love story? THE FAVOURITE, which was filled with anachronisms and oddities, could have been too Masterpiece Theater straight or too Monty Python silly in someone else’s hands. Lanthimos crafted the exact mix of broad, ironic and brutal that this satire needed to work.

He’s now reunited with his FAVOURITE screenwriter Tony McNamara and star Emma Stone for POOR THINGS, an adaptation of Alasdair Gray’s novel that puts a feminist spin on the Frankenstein myth, with stylistic flourishes that draw from steampunk and Universal monster movies. It’s singular and provocative.

“[The word] provocative ... I used to be defensive about it,” he told an interviewer once, in regards to the descriptive that gets slapped on his work. “But in the end, I realized it’s exactly right. It’s what we’re trying to do—to provoke thought and discussion and, you know, shake people up to start thinking about things in a different way.” –David Fear

A selection of clips will be followed by the presentation of the Silver Medallion, an on-stage interview and a screening of POOR THINGS (see full description, page 9), shown in its entirety.

Director Yorgos Lanthimos reunites with THE FAVOURITE screenwriter Tony McNamara and star Emma Stone for this funny, furious, proudly feminist take on the Frankenstein story, in which a young woman named Bella is raised from the dead by a Victorian-era scientist (Willem Dafoe). Her brain is the equivalent of an infant’s, which means she must relearn language, motor skills and manners. Then a mustachioed cad (Mark Ruffalo) educates this neo-naïf in the ways of carnal knowledge, at which point Bella discovers the joys of sex, the hypocritical sexism of 19th century polite society and, eventually, how to liberate herself from the shackles of the past and present. Co-starring Ramy Youssef, Hanna Schygulla and Jerrod Carmichael, POOR THINGS is both a sharp, witty throwback to the Pilgrim’s Progress satires of yesteryear and a scathing revision of the Prometheus myth, featuring a no-holds-barred performance from Stone as a woman who goes from victim to avenging angel. –DF (U.S.-Ireland-U.K., 2023, 141m)

Bayard Rustin is the unsung hero of the civil rights era, the mastermind of the 1963 March on Washington and Martin Luther King’s closest confidante—until deemed a liability to “the movement” because he was a gay ex-Communist. George C. Wolfe’s period film puts character before characters and feelings before history lessons, offering political organizing as something akin to an action-adventure movie. Colman Domingo is spectacular as Rustin, bursting with intellect and charm. A new generation of Black organizers flock to him, eager to pioneer new strategies (and have fun, like Rustin). Anyone who has seen SELMA and TILL and who thinks they already know this era needn’t hesitate: this one is different. Thanks to a script by Julian Breeze and Dustin Lance Black, and an all-star cast, Bayard Rustin and his legacy will be forgotten no longer. –RR (U.S., 2023, 99m)

Alice Rohrwacher, a recipient of this year’s Silver Medallion, is a writer and director who has been making films for a relatively short period of time, and yet has become one of the world’s most acclaimed filmmakers. Born in Tuscany, she studied literature and philosophy at the University of Turin and screenwriting at the Holden School in Turin. Her first feature film, CORPO CELESTE (2011), the story of a young adolescent girl on the edge of her Catholic confirmation, premiered at Cannes. Her second, THE WONDERS (2014), immersed us in a fantastical Italian rural village just as it collided with the world of modern media. It won Cannes’ Grand Prix. HAPPY AS LAZZARO (2018), a transporting tale of a village stuck in a feudal loop, also won a Cannes award. And in 2022, her short film LE PUPILLE offered a magical portal into a Catholic School whose students have nowhere to go during the holidays. The film, produced by Alfonso Cuarón, was nominated for an Academy Award.

What lies beneath Rohrwacher’s success? Part of what makes her films memorable is that they are unlike the works of anyone else. The subject matter is metaphysical: life and death, the hidden power of history and ecology. To immerse in her works is to explore the very essence of what it is to be present, to be human. Her work intertwines past and present; she blurs the boundaries between the realms. And her writing guides us into worlds where morality is explored in shifting, complex ways. She is something of an oracle, and the works—moving, poetic, thought provoking—operate in a different sphere from contemporary cinema, inspiring deep contemplation.

LA CHIMERA, which premiered at Cannes this year, stars Josh O’Connor and Isabella Rossellini and explores visible and hidden histories. Etruscan artifacts play a large role, carrying meaning beyond their physical form. (A red cake in LE PUPILLE played a similar role.) What do these objects mean to us? Can they connect us more deeply to our unseen selves and our ancestors? Rohrwacher is among a short list of filmmakers who ask us to consider the sacred, the invisible, the ecstatic, the sublime.

—Isabel Pinner

A selection of clips will be followed by the presentation of the Silver Medallion, an on-stage interview and LA CHIMERA (page 11), shown in its entirety.
A young teen (Lola Petticrew), bedridden with an unnamed disease, finds herself unable to breathe and struggling with overwhelming anxiety. Her mom (the fine Julia Louis-Dreyfus) is in denial, emotionally remote and in serious financial trouble. Enter a strange and searingly lovely being, an angel of sorts, determined to help manage the girl's suffering. Daina O. Pusić's wildly imaginative debut feature provides a sophisticated blend of horror, tenderness, tragicomedy, fairytale and philosophical insight so thrilling that you'll wonder whether to laugh or cry. The girl's explosive emotions and uncontrollable appetites give rise to astounding bodily transformations (the film, in addition to all else, conjures many exhilarating visual spectacles, with a sensibility that Lewis Carroll might appreciate). Sometimes the fantastical is a way of looking more closely at our reality, and it is just when tragedy is knocking that we might discover an unexpected burst of magic. –LG (U.S.-U.K., 2023, 111m)

For more than 30 years, Aki Kaurismäki (DRIFTING CLOUDS, LE HAVRE) has crafted lucid fables about marginalized outcasts. He's portrayed artists, laborers and immigrants with a detached tragi-comic tenderness: these are his people. Kaurismäki's latest, a masterful distillation of prior themes, emerges as a somber romantic comedy. The down-on-his-luck Holappa (the acclaimed actor Jussi Vatanen) and the sensitive supermarket cashier Ansa (the radiant Alma Pöysti), two quiet loners, spot each other in a bar and then go to a movie together (it's, of all things, Jim Jarmusch's macabre THE DEAD DON'T DIE, which Ansa considers a comedy). Accidents, alcohol and their own vulnerabilities keep them apart. Will the persistence of desire draw them back together? The cinematographer Timo Salminen, a longtime Kaurismäki collaborator, paints the film's bars, factories and rain-drenched streets in memorably saturated colors; Pöysti's clear-eyed, sensitive gaze takes the movie straight into our hearts. –LG (Finland, 2023, 81m)

Master filmmaker Steve McQueen (HUNGER, 12 YEARS A SLAVE, SMALL AXE) has constructed an exhaustive, subtle, incredibly moving portrait of both the past and present of Amsterdam, his part-time home city. Based on Atlas of an Occupied City: Amsterdam 1940-1945, the book by his wife, the historian and filmmaker Bianca Stigter (THREE MINUTES: A LENGTHENING), McQueen maps the locations where both devastating traumatic violence and heroic acts of resistance occurred during the Nazi occupation. He sets Stigter's calm, implacable words against images of Amsterdam's vital multi-cultural, multi-ethnic population today, as it copes with COVID and the necessity of climate action. The cinematography of Lennert Hilleg is nimble and involving, and the music by Oliver Coates, used only in small doses, haunts you. This is an uncannily original film, a minimalist epic, with a breathtaking final tribute to the improbable survival of Amsterdam's Jewish community. –LG (Netherlands-U.K.-U.S., 2023, 262m) In person: Steve McQueen, Bianca Stigter
Fiona Gordon and Dominique Abel (THE FAIRY, LOST IN PARIS) delight audiences with their blend of slapstick and burlesque. Their latest “crime movie” transmutes the codes of film noir through their characteristically colorful palette and clownish plot twists. Abel plays Boris, a former activist hiding from his dark past, keeping in the shadows as a barkeeper, until a one-armed vigilante finally hunts him down. The fortuitous appearance of a double—the depressive recluse Dom (also played by Abel) seems to offer the perfect decoy. But his tenacious and loopy ex-wife, the private eye Fiona (Gordon), could foil their master plan. Abel and Gordon’s memorable dose of hilarity seems perfectly calibrated to the social mood; each deceptively minimalistic set piece brims with a cinematic intelligence that recalls Tati and Keaton. The cast features Philippe Martz and Bruno Romy and the Japanese dancer Kaori Ito, who plays a willful and hilariously unpredictable femme fatale. –MF (France-Belgium, 2023, 98m) In person: Fiona Gordon, Dominique Abel

James Card, co-founder of the Telluride Film Festival, resurrected this film in the 1950s with the help of Cinemathèque française’s maverick friend Henri Langlois. The sixth collaboration between Lon Chaney and director Tod Browning, THE UNKNOWN remains widely regarded as the ultimate tour de force for the “man of a thousand faces” and one of Browning’s most sexually charged melodramas. His portrayal of the circus as the ultimate theater of lust, jealousy, and revenge is blessed by the appearance of Joan Crawford, who brings a perverse twist to the definition of “ingénue” in the role that paved her road to stardom. Known for many years in a heavily truncated version, this cult film of the silent era is now virtually complete thanks to the George Eastman Museum’s new restoration, with additional footage found in a copy from the Czech Film Archive. –PCU (U.S., 1927, 68m) In person: Donald Sosin, Paolo Cherchi Usai, Gordon Nelson

In NERUDA, EL CLUB and NO, Pablo Larraín interrogated the legacy of Augusto Pinochet’s murderous military dictatorship in Chile, his homeland. Now, with stunning comic audacity, he confronts that same beast head on, depicting Pinochet as a vampire, part of a monstrous lineage of 250 years of European political violence. Rapacious children covet the evil one’s hidden wealth, a crazed nun hopes to subject him to an exorcism and a devious butler shares his appetite for torture. The icy, witty narration is spoken by none other than—wait for it—Margaret Thatcher! Telluride tributee Ed Lachman’s visionary black-and-white cinematography moves with astonishing fluidity through the centuries, with incisive references to Buñuel, Dreyer, and Pasolini. A work of soaring visionary intensity, Larraín has taken the history film to a funny, gruesome and terrifyingly true new sphere … and you’ll never look at a blender in quite the same way. –LG (Chile, 2023, 110m) In person: Pablo Larraín, Ed Lachman

Less is more; many modern artists, from van der Rohe to Beckett, have made this principle the core of their creations. But writer-director Jonathan Glazer, in audacious fashion, takes the concept to a disturbing new place: the extermination camp at Auschwitz. Rather than depicting any of the now-familiar, still incomprehensible horrors, Glazer offers us only ordinary life, following a camp commandant and hard-working bureaucrat Rudolf Hoss (Christian Friedel) and his brisk, cheerful wife Hedwig (Sandra Hüller), a devoted homemaker and mom, as they engage in their everyday tasks. THE ZONE OF INTEREST transforms their denial and euphemism into an investigation: does evil lurk within all of us? Could you or I serve as accomplice to genocide? Cinematographer Łukasz Żal, composer Mica Levi and sound designer Johnnie Burn implement the obsessive clarity of Glazer’s vision, as he rigorously exposes the horrifying, increasingly resonant truth of the Holocaust: yes, it could happen again. –LG (U.S.-U.K.-Poland, 2023, 105m) In person: Jonathan Glazer
What’s on your plate? 15 years ago, Robert Kenner’s vivid, deeply researched FOOD, INC.—the INCONVENIENT TRUTH of the dinner table—alerted Americans about a troubling reality: their daily meals come with deep ethical and environmental consequences. The film steered viewers towards organic, free-range and locally sourced foods. And yet, as this potent follow-up reveals, the corporate food overlords have only tightened their grip on our farms and stores. Kenner and co-director Melissa Robledo (producer of the original film) identify the villains—a handful of companies that have cornered various elements of the American food system—and the heroes, including Senators Cory Booker and Jon Tester (himself a farmer), who are eager to bust up the monopolies. FOOD, INC. 2 argues that a healthy food system is the centerpiece of a just society. –JS (U.S., 2023, 94m) In person: Robby Kenner, Melissa Robledo, Michael Pollan, Eric Schlosser, Zack Smith

In the late 1970’s, Andy Kaufman revolutionized stand-up comedy by downplaying the telling of jokes and introducing new tactics of performance art. Alex Braverman’s documentary, produced by a powerhouse team (Benny and Josh Safdie, Morgan Neville, Rick Rubin), meticulously reconstructs the evolution of Kaufman’s mind-bending onstage antics. The sweet, gentle Andy took his audience out for milk and cookies. The dark Andy “became” the misogynistic, middle-aged has-been Vegas comedian Tony Clifton. Kaufman’s co-writer Bob Zmuda, Saturday Night Live creator Lorne Michaels, Taxi co-star Danny DeVito, girlfriend Lynne Margulies and Kaufman’s father testify to the disconcerting originality of his creative vision and his almost Kafkaesque obsession with drawing out our discomfort and disorientation. If you found Kaufman wildly funny, you’ll appreciate a joyful assemblage of some of his greatest hits. New to his world? Be prepared for a very wild ride. –LG (U.S., 2023, 99m) In person: Alex Braverman

The world is full of stories we think we understand, often from an article or even just a headline. You likely did this with John Chau. You know, that Christian missionary who visited a remote island and was promptly killed by the inhabitants? Perhaps you assigned the story a tidy compartment and moved on with your life. But great documentaries open those compartments, leaving the contents messy and strewn about, revealing deep emotional truths. Amanda McBaine and Jesse Moss’ THE MISSION is such a film. They use interviews, animation, letters from family, and Chau's own secret diaries to reconstruct the life of an evangelical Christian missionary who planned his trip with the exacting detail of a cinematic heist. Only, for Chau, his visit was the opposite of theft—he was offering the gift of salvation—but the uncontacted tribe of indigenous people he targeted had no desire to interact with the dangerous ways of the wider world. –DW (U.S., 2023, 103m) In person: Amanda McBaine, Jesse Moss, Levi Davis, Dan Everett, Adam Goodheart
The latest by powerhouse artist-filmmaker duo Christine Molloy and Joe Lawlor picks up a thread from their last film THE FUTURE TENSE, a soulful investigation of Ireland’s tumultuous history. Here, using the form of a heist movie, they tell the true story of Rose Dugdale (played by Imogen Poots), a young heiress who rebelled against her English aristocratic upbringing to volunteer with the Irish Republican Army. In 1974, Dugdale and her collaborators swiped 19 paintings—including Rubens, Goya, and Vermeer—from a private home, using these treasures as leverage for the liberation of four IRA prisoners. Lawlor and Molloy’s highly atmospheric thriller plunges us into the Troubles with heart-stopping intensity, and Poots is riveting as the revolutionary. Beneath her radical facade, we see her fragility and inner turmoil, as she wrestles with appreciation for the beautiful artifacts of a world she has set out to destroy, and the fear of the chaos she has unleashed. –MF (Ireland-U.K., 2023, 95m) In person: Joe Lawlor, Christine Molloy

French visual artist-director JR (co-director of the Oscar-nominated documentary FACES PLACES with the legendary Agnès Varda) situates his latest social-art intervention in a Southern Californian supermax prison, where he has imagined an enormously ambitious collaboration with the facility’s inmates. The plan: to paste a photo of inmates, large enough to encompass the entire prison yard, and then to have each portrait carry a story, to be accessed through a smartphone app or the web. We hear stories of repentance and of mistakes made and pleas for understanding. It’s an aching, subtle, and thought-provoking indictment on America’s mass incarceration system and a successful attempt to give voice and humanity to the men who are trapped inside. Thanks to JR’s radical empathy, this intimate and immersive documentary discovers perseverance and hope in a seemingly hopeless place. –RD (France, 2023, 92m) In person: JR, Kevin Walsh

In 18th century Denmark, Captain Ludvig Kahlen (Mads Mikkelsen) sets out in the name of the king to tame the Jutland heath—a vast, barren stretch of wilderness that has felled many an aspiring pioneer. A hard, driven man of low origins, Kahlen seeks to legitimize his existence. His efforts push him to the edge of survival and put him in direct conflict with the grotesquely brutal nobleman Schinkel, who seems to be everything Ludvig isn’t. Based on Ida Jessen’s best-selling novel The Captain and Ann Barbara, itself inspired by real characters, Nikolaj Arcel’s epic has the mesmerizing spectacle of a Western, the visceral urgency of a revenge thriller and the queasy moral complexity of an existential drama. At its heart is Mikkelsen’s spellbinding performance, which brings layers of contradiction to one of the most fascinating and enigmatic figures in Danish history. –BE (Denmark-Germany-Sweden, 2023, 127m) In person: Nikolaj Arcel

Liv (Jessica Henwick) and Hanna (Julia Garner), two Canadian women on vacation in Australia, run out of money. Desperate, they take a job bartending in a remote desert Outback hotel, only to realize they’ve stumbled into a sun-struck patch of Hell-on-Earth. Writer-director Kitty Green adapts, with co-screenwriter Oscar Redding, a true story that starts as a feminist parable and develops into a taut horror-thriller. Both Garner (reunited with Green after their stunning THE ASSISTANT) and Henwick are riveting, as is Hugo Weaving in an all-too-brief role. Green and co-screenwriter Oscar Redding don’t idealize their heroines in the politically correct way you might expect: Liv and Hanna are neither Girl Scouts nor victims. As the threat of misogynist violence rises, drink by drink, scene by scene, Green deepens the film’s core theme: ugly behavior and casual disregard for other humans is highly contagious. –LG (Australia, 2023, 91m) In person: Kitty Green
During his bountiful, adventurous career, Errol Morris has interrogated roboticists, pet cemetery owners, a Holocaust denier, Stephen Hawking, a parrot, the Unabomber’s pen pal and two architects of massively deadly American wars. In talking to David Cornwell, aka the novelist John le Carré, he seems to have discovered a soulmate. Cornwell is a generous storyteller, gifting us tales of his compulsive grifter father and the hypocrisies of British society. A former spy, he deftly explodes any romance of espionage we might have. But that’s not the juiciest part. The two men, each of whom has dedicated decades to hunting the elusive nature of “truth,” seem to bond, and arrive at the same question at the same time: If we can’t know what’s real in the world, how can we know ourselves? THE PIGEON TUNNEL’s interviews were shot on a set featuring mirrored and skewed expressionist bookshelves. The effect is unsettling, and it is just right. –JS (U.K., 2023, 90m) In person: Errol Morris

Oliver (Barry Keoghan) is a strong contender for Oxford’s least popular new student. Then he befriends Felix (Jacob Elordi), the handsome, aristocratic campus hotshot. He invites Ollie into his inner circle, then back to his family’s posh country estate for the summer. It soon becomes apparent that Felix’s middle-class guest not only knows the rules of the game when it comes to the lifestyles of the rich and entitled—he’s also a quick learner in terms of rigging the game in his favor. Writer-director Emerald Fennell’s follow-up to PROMISING YOUNG WOMAN is one hell of a caustic take on British class warfare and the casual cruelty of the upper crust, blessed with razor-sharp dialogue and a great supporting cast (including Rosamund Pike and Richard E. Grant). And thanks to Keoghan’s career-best performance, we now have one of the more complex cinematic heroes in memory: Oliver is equal parts smart, seductive and wildly unpredictable. –DF (U.S., 2023, 127m) In person: Emerald Fennell

In Georgian director Kote Mikaberidze’s hilarious no-holds-barred satire, a hopelessly lazy paper-pusher tries to get his job back to avoid the wrath of his wife by looking for a “grandmother”—an influential bureaucrat who can provide a recommendation letter. For the worker, the quest turns into a labyrinthine excursion through the thickest red tape; the audience is thrust into a gloriously entertaining, frenetic 60 minutes, crammed with wildly imaginative visuals, camera tricks, special effects and stop-motion animation. Banned for nearly 50 years, MY GRANDMOTHER remains one of the most delightfully irreverent and peculiar comedies of the silent era. The exuberant Finnish musical ensemble Cleaning Women, whose work includes scores for the films AELITA, METROPOLIS and Alice Rohrwacher’s Oscar-nominated short LE PUPILLE, bring their self-made, instruments—crafted from mangled household items and repurposed trash—to the U.S. for the first time. –MF (Soviet Union, 1929, 61m) In person: Cleaning Women

In 2010, beset by drugs, booze and an incomprehensible level of stress, the legendary fashion designer John Galliano hurled a series of antisemitic and anti-Asian slurs at strangers in a Parisian bar. In a flash, the head of Dior—a favorite of Princess Diana and Nicole Kidman—lost the most prestigious job in fashion, was convicted of hate crimes in France and cast out from the A-list. Galliano’s rags-to-riches-to-public-shaming tale is epic stuff (an abused son of a plumber, a starving avant-garde artist, legendary excess). Kevin Macdonald, however, avoids salacious drama, instead elevating HIGH & LOW into a startling work of art in its own right. Making audacious connections (including an interweave of images from Abel Gance’s NAPOLEON), showcasing Galliano’s creations with love and respect and amplifying the emotions at every key moment, Macdonald creates a symphonic epic of an uncompromising, inspired and troubled artist. We feel Galliano: his soaring creativity and his wounded soul. –JS (U.K., 2023, 116m) In person: Kevin Macdonald
U.S. foreign policy can seem like an exercise in forgetting: fighting and losing wars and then leaving the battlefield behind (Vietnam, Salvador, Iraq ...). Ibrahim Nash’at’s brilliant, courageous film serves as an act of collective memory—a painfully intimate portrait of post-war Afghanistan, a country Americans spent two decades invading and occupying before suddenly departing. With unparalleled access to the victorious Taliban regime, Nash’at, an Egyptian documentarian, silently looks over the shoulders of a government minister and an Air Force officer as they prepare for a new era of power. They inspect the riches the Americans have left behind: billions of dollars in weapons, refrigerators packed with liquor and pallets of vital medicine that, through incompetence and hubris, the Taliban let expire. At the end of this vivid, humane and endlessly surprising portrait of a society in transition, you’ll ask yourself the question that’s at the core of Nash’at’s inquiry: What was it all for? –MD (U.S.-Germany, 2023, 92m) In person: Ibrahim Nash’at

Music becomes a matter of life or death in these two thought-provoking, emotionally powerful works by Oscar-winning directors. Kevin Macdonald’s THE LAST SONG FROM KABUL (Afghanistan-Qatar-Portugal-Germany, 2023, 34m) immerses us in the devastating reality of Afghanistan after the Taliban occupation: music has been banned. Forced into hiding, a group of young musicians attempt a harrowing escape to Portugal. Will they be able to find their voices again? In THE LAST REPAIR SHOP (U.S, 2023, 39m), Ben Proudfoot (THE BEST CHEF IN THE WORLD), co-directing with the Emmy Award-winning American composer and pianist Kris Bowers (KING RICHARD), tells the story of four unassuming heroes who ensure no student is deprived of the joy of music. Tucked away in an L.A. warehouse, these devoted craftspeople are charged with maintaining and repairing over 80,000 instruments so that schoolchildren in the city can follow their dreams. These portraits remind us of how music can be the best medicine, stress reliever and even an escape from poverty. –MF

These two films provide a powerful reminder of the many faces of American inequality: racial, rural, geographical, economic. Already living in a medical desert, Appalachian patients and providers continue struggling and supporting each other as the impacts of poor health taint every waking hour—and then a once-in-a-century pandemic hits. With IF DREAMS WERE LIGHTNING, Ramin Bahrani (99 HOMES, AT ANY PRICE) explores a precarious community ill-equipped to handle catastrophe, and in so doing captures the human cost of inequality, a moral failure in the richest nation in the world (U.S., 2023, 25m). In INCIDENT (U.S., 2023, 30m) the noted archive-collage filmmaker Bill Morrison uses surveillance footage to reconstruct the killing of Chicago barber Harith Augustus by the police. In the aftermath of the shooting, public officials justified the officers’ actions, but the videos tell another story. Morrison creates an indelible document of tragedy and a miscarriage of justice. –TFF In person: Ramin Bahrani, Bill Morrison, Jamie Kalven
34 Janet Planet

After begging her mother Janet (Julianne Nicholson) to take her out of summer camp, 11-year-old introvert Lacey (Zoe Ziegler) spends the next couple of months before sixth grade quietly watching her mom navigate a series of relationships, romantic and otherwise. Set in Western Massachusetts, Pulitzer Prize-winning dramatist Annie Baker’s feature filmmaking debut has the wry observational detail and deadpan charm of her best work. It’s also an impressively immersive and controlled look at the awkwardness of childhood, particularly of that age when the mysterious ways of adults slowly become clearer to us. Lacey understands the world in fragments — through those fragments, Baker weaves a captivating and occasionally hilarious tale reminiscent of the best work of Jim Jarmusch and Jia Zhangke. The superb supporting cast includes Elias Koteas, Sophie Okonedo and Will Patton. —BE (U.S., 2023, 110m)

2022 was shaping up to be a magical year for Jon Batiste: he had just won an Oscar for his SOUL soundtrack; had a fantastic nightly gig as the bandleader for Late Night with Stephen Colbert; and his song “Freedom,” from his We Are record, was topping the charts. And Batiste was embarking upon his most ambitious work, an assemblage of regional sounds and deep historical themes scheduled to premiere at Carnegie Hall. But then, he received crushing news: his partner, the writer Suleika Jaouad, had a relapse of her leukemia. The filmmaker Matthew Heineman—known for covering the world’s most intense situations in CARTEL LAND, RETROGRADE and THE FIRST WAVE—kept his camera rolling as Batiste’s painfully eventful year unfolded. His AMERICAN SYMPHONY is a startlingly intimate account, showing us how Batiste responded to his family’s crisis with love, creativity and supernatural stamina. It’s one of cinema’s most soulful, honest portraits of an artist at work. —JS (U.S., 2023, 100m)

36 The Monk and the Gun

In 2007, Bhutan’s king Jigme Singye abdicated, leading to a new ideology for the small country: democracy. Writer-director Pawo Choyning Dorji (LUNANA: A YAK IN THE CLASSROOM) explores the moment through a series of interlocking characters: Tashi (Tandin Wangchuk) a naive but resolute monk sent into the world on a strange mission; Benji (Tandin Sonam) and Ronald (Harry Einhorn), two clumsy antique smugglers; Yangden (Pema Zangmo Sherpa) an ambitious bureaucrat overseeing the country’s first mock elections; and Tshomo (Deki Lhamo), a village mom who senses the damage politics is doing to her family. As unfamiliar ways of being arrive to a traditional and seemingly happy and healthy society, people are asking themselves, how can we reconcile our spiritual and cultural values with modern, global life? The funny, elegant and bittersweet tale is elevated by the magnificent open-air cinematography by Jigme Tenzing. —LG (Bhutan, 2023, 106m)

37 Cassandro

The Mexican wrestling style known as lucha libre features extravagant costumes, a mix of acrobatics and theatrics, mythic masked superheroes and, perhaps ironically, a strain of homophobia. Traditionally, the least popular guys in the world of lucha libre were often exóticos, glamorously clad, lipstick wearing, gender-bending wrestlers. The exóticos always—always—lost. Then came Saúl Armendáriz, aka Cassandro, one of the first openly gay luchadores. The first scripted feature by Academy Award-winning writer-director Roger Ross Williams (LIFE, ANIMATED) follows Cassandro (played by a brilliant Gael García Bernal) as he injects attitude, wit, humor and a hefty dose of fabulousness into the ring. Bernal’s Cassandro captures the crowd’s heart and transmutes it into his own power. Inside and outside the ring, he ushers in a new era for the sport and for queer freedom in Mexico. —MF (U.S., 2023, 107m)

38 Anatomy of a Fall

Writer-director Justine Triet’s film reimagines Bergman’s SCENES FROM A MARRIAGE through the prism of an Agatha Christie whodunit. Samuel (Samuel Theis), a beloved husband and father, shockingly falls to his death in the wintry French countryside. A year later, his wife Sandra (Sandra Hüller), a successful novelist, is on trial for his murder. Triet’s superlative script (co-authored with Arthur Harari) ingeniously uses ellipsis and misdirection to create a hypnotic chess game between defense and prosecution attorneys (Swann Arlaud and Antoine Reinartz), while shifting our sympathies to Daniel (Milo Machado-Graner), the couple’s clever, vision-impaired son who has grown up in the eye of his parents’ marital storms. Hüller captures the excruciating conflict between Sandra’s devotion to her family and her obsessive intellectual, sexual and creative ambitions. Her magnetic performance will take your breath away. –LG (France, 2023, 151m) In person: Justine Triet

39 The Teachers’ Lounge

The winner of numerous German Film Awards (Best Picture, Director, Actress, Screenplay and Editing), Ilker Çatak’s nerve-wracking drama (he wrote the script with Johannes Duncker) follows a new teacher (a mesmerizing Leonie Benesch) as she attempts to get to the truth behind a series of alleged robberies at her school. Irked by how quickly others blame a Turkish student, she takes matters into her own hands. But that only sets off a cascade of schoolwide crises. Çatak and director of photography Judith Kaufmann create a vivid sense of place, perfectly capturing the antiseptic awkwardness of school life for both teachers and students. But then he twists the screws—narratively, emotionally, and stylistically—until what emerges is an allegory of paranoia, surveillance, and institutional failure. Even the best of intentions can fray the social fabric. –BE (Germany, 2023, 94m) In person: Ilker Çatak

40 Beyond Utopia

Every time Pastor Seungeun Kim tussles with North Korea, he gambles with his life. Using pure guile, and avoiding North Korean operatives, the soft-spoken activist has for years helped defectors escape the oppressive regime’s grasp with an elaborate system of hidden cameras, middle-men brokers and secret trails. Madeleine Gavin centers her harrowing, incisive documentary on Kim’s courageous actions, but also reveals a cruel society fueled by a continuous flow of misinformation. BEYOND UTOPIA features unprecedented footage from the inside, supplied by defectors and other activists, and provides a history lesson, a reminder of the millions of unnecessary deaths over the past three decades due to war, famine and political persecution. It’s a rare glimpse behind the shroud of a repressive, brutally authoritarian society frozen in a cycle of horror. –RD (U.S., 2023, 115m) In person: Madeleine Gavin, Pastor Seungeun Kim, Soyeon Lee

41 Finally Dawn

During the 1950’s, American movie stars flocked to the “Hollywood on the Tiber,” Rome’s legendary Cinecittà studios. There, producers churned out a steady stream of “sword and sandal” epics that helped launch or resuscitate acting careers. Our guide to this magical but dangerous universe is Mimosa (Rebecca Antonaci), a desperately poor and unworldly Roman who comes under the sway of a Josephine (Lily James), a glamorous American diva, for one crazy night. Writer-director Saverio Costanzo’s skillfully composed and sharply ironic fairytale co-stars Willem Dafoe, exuding the calm-weary wisdom a fairy godfather requires, and Joe Keery (Stranger Things) as Sean, a sweety self-involved Prince Charming. James, Keery and Dafoe are a hoot, and there are memorable cameos by Rachel Sennott and Alba Rohrwacher. The wide-eyed Rebecca Antonaci makes innocence credible and FINALLY DAWN unexpectedly moving. –LG (Italy, 2023, 140m) In person: Saverio Costanzo
We honor the long and diverse history of the film festival with six Guest Directors who have played an important role in years past. Each film will be presented by the Guest Director who selected it.

42 Juvenile Court

Frederick Wiseman’s influential film, like Telluride, is having its 50th anniversary. Released in 1973, this immersion in the world of juvenile law and so-called order in Memphis is my favorite of all of Wiseman’s films. WELFARE is a close second, as a minute-by-minute masterpiece of American gravity, absurdity, and heartbreak, but JUVENILE COURT is unique in showing us, through voices and faces, and increasingly long takes in the courtroom, the drama of children and families and one omnipotent judge, who seems, by turns, benevolent and less so. The most talented writer could not invent dialogue equal to what some of these kids have to say. Real kids, who were merely passing through the courts, and through this film, in which virtually every adult is smoking, making the film into a kind of shaken snow-globe, a world we gaze upon in miniature, with smoke, instead of snowflakes, always rising. –RK (U.S., 1973, 144m) Selected and presented by Rachel Kushner

43 All That Jazz

One Friday night in 1979, my mother took me with her to see ALL THAT JAZZ (she didn’t have a babysitter). Early in the film, a gaggle of strippers tease a teenage Joe Gideon until he wets his pants. During this scene, my mom escorted me out of the theater and over to THE MUPPET MOVIE. But I snuck back in and watched, entranced. At age nine, I didn’t understand the references to Fellini or the sexuality/addiction issues, but I loved the intimacy and insight into the process of creation. I don’t know if Bob Fosse is my favorite film director, but he’s definitely the film director I most closely relate to. All of his films are about show business in some way and they are achingly personal. His best, ALL THAT JAZZ, is cinema as a self-portrait. That’s my favorite type of filmmaking, personal, and for better or worse, I’ve always tried to follow Fosse’s light. –EH (U.S., 1979, 123m) Selected and presented by Ethan Hawke

44 Jonah Who Will Be 25 in the Year 2000

Alain Tanner, pioneering director of the Swiss New Wave, made this film in 1976 with his frequent collaborator, the writer, art critic and painter John Berger. Set in Geneva in the aftermath of the political turmoil in Europe in 1968, the story follows the intertwined lives of a disparate array of characters: an unemployed typesetter and union militant, a factory worker, a secretary, a couple who runs an organic truck-farm, a copyeditor, a history teacher and a supermarket cashier —four men and four women—whom Tanner called his “little prophets”: Each grapples with political disillusionment and thinking about new ways of being. Tanner described the film as “a tragicomic odyssey in political science fiction.” JONAH perfectly crystallizes the mood of the early 70s, a mixture of failing political projects, fraying revolutionary ideals, along with an enduring sense of hope and possibility. –ACO (France-Switzerland, 1976, 111m) Selected and presented by Alfonso Cuarón

45 The Long Good Friday

Most good films capture their time and show you what you are living through. But there are very few that also see into the future. One of them was BLADE RUNNER. Another, made at exactly the same time, was this thrilling gangster movie that also shows, dramatically, how power was going to go in the future. Starring Helen Mirren and Bob Hoskins, John Mackenzie’s film is set in the vast decaying docklands of London as the old industrial economies of the west were collapsing. Hoskins is a gangster who sees how all that derelict land could be turned into a vast stream of money by transforming it into “Luxury Property.” Creating this new shining world involved violence and corruption that Hoskins thinks he can control. But the imperial past could not be so easily wiped and forgotten. Its violence was going to come back to haunt him. –AC (U.K., 1980, 114m) Selected and presented by Adam Curtis

46 Zéro de Conduite

Jean Vigo’s film depicts a rebellion in a French boys’ boarding-school. It’s all about liberation, freedom, losses and possibilities. It’s sexually ambiguous, political and bizarre, with a great narrative. All these ingredients add up to something that’s huge, almost too big. To create anything of that subversive nature, there had to be an element of humor, to carry people along. It was banned for years by French censors and didn’t get a general release until 1946. And I will say, the last frame of the film … immense. I was a 19-year-old in art school when I first saw it, and found it utterly magical. –SM (France, 1933, 44m) Selected and presented by Steve McQueen

47 The Music Room

Satyajit Ray, the masterful guru of Indian cinema, takes us spellbindingly into the fading aristocracy of Bengal. Roy (the legendary actor Chhabi Biswas) is a landlord battling the seesaw of delirium, in such desperate love with classical music that he risks everything around him. Biswas’ tour de force performance plumbs the ego and folly of human passion. I share Roy’s love of music, and so did Ray. His use of music is extraordinary, featuring real legends of Indian classical music: from Begum Akhtar, perhaps the greatest ghazal singer we’ve ever had, to shehnai maestro Ustad Bismillah Khan. Subrata Mitra, Ray’s cinematographer, made sophisticated shots without fancy toys or much equipment, using reflections and mirrors to trap us in a beautiful claustrophobia. Ray shot entirely on location, making a classic in an Indian vernacular, just as Ozu, Mizoguchi and Kurosawa did in Japan. –MN (India, 1958, 99m) Selected and presented by Mira Nair
We know Martin Scorsese as a brilliant filmmaker, but he has created another, perhaps even greater legacy as the architect of The Film Foundation. Since 1990 The Film Foundation has identified and funded the preservation and restoration of over 1000 films from around the world—features, shorts, documentaries, experimental films, newsreels, and home movies.

While initially focused on American films, The Film Foundation has since created the World Cinema Project and the African Film Heritage Project. The Film Foundation’s “The Story of Movies” project brings classic cinema into American classrooms and is used by over 150,000 teachers in public, private, and parochial schools.

Co-founded by Robert Altman, Francis Ford Coppola, Stanley Kubrick, George Lucas, Woody Allen, Sydney Pollack, Clint Eastwood, Robert Redford and Steven Spielberg, The Film Foundation now counts 19 directors on its board who meet bi-annually to discuss issues of film preservation and individual films to preserve. The work of The Film Foundation has created an ever-growing, worldwide ripple effect of awareness of the urgency of film preservation.

As it celebrates its 50th anniversary, the Telluride Film Festival can think of no more richly deserving recipient of its Silver Medallion Award than The Film Foundation. —Alexander Payne

In person: Margaret Bodde

The “choice” of the film’s title, in translation, might refer to the impossible one rural families are forced to make: to leave home to try their luck in the city? YAM DAABO, which premiered at Cannes, launched Ouédraogo into international prominence and, five years after his death, he remains one of Africa’s most popular auteurs, a filmmaker whose focus remained on human-scale stories. He followed YAM DAABO with two Cannes prize winners, YAABA and THE LAW, and directed six other features over the next eight years. —TFF (Burkina Faso, 1986, 80m) The screening will be preceded by the presentation of the Special Medallion to Margaret Bodde of the Film Foundation.

This restoration is part of the African Film Heritage Project, an initiative created by The Film Foundation’s World Cinema Project, the Pan African Federation of Filmmakers and UNESCO—in collaboration with Cineteca di Bologna—to help locate, restore, and disseminate African cinema.

Passes
Passholders must wear their passes at all times to all Festival events. Passholders are admitted to the theaters first. Please read the back of your pass for information on what your pass does and does not provide.

TBAs
The Telluride Film Festival schedule has been designed to accommodate all passholders at all programs, but not at all screenings. Programs that do not have sufficient seating at scheduled showings often will be repeated in the TBA slots, making it possible for all passholders to see the programs they wish to see during the course of the Festival. The list of TBAs will be available the night before on the Festival website and mobile app.

Individual Tickets
Open seats remaining in the theaters after passholders have been seated will be sold just before showtime on a first-come, first-served basis for $40 each, credit card only.

The Late Show
The Late Show Ticket ($125) provides entry to the final shows on Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday at both Chuck Jones’ Cinema and the Palm. Tickets may be purchased at the Nugget Theater or at either venue’s box office. Late Show Ticket holders will be admitted to their shows with general passholders.

Free Shows
This icon 🆑 designates a show that is free and open to the public. Passholders are admitted first to indoor shows. The Backlot is always free on a first-come, first-served basis.

Qs
Except for Chuck Jones’ Cinema (see below), all theater venues use a system of “Qs” to ensure fairness and uphold the first-come, first-served policy of the Festival. Laminated Qs are distributed at each venue to better control entry and determine as quickly as possible when a show is expected to sell out. Only one Q per passholder present will be issued. Holders of Qs are not guaranteed entry. Qs are distributed ONE HOUR BEFORE SHOWTIME.

Chuck Jones’ Cinema
Because of its location in Mountain Village, a 12-minute gondola ride from Telluride, Chuck Jones’ Cinema (CJC) uses the Wabbit Werservation, or W2, system for entry as an alternative to the Qs distributed at other venues. The W2 guarantees an unassigned seat for passholders for a specific show at CJC for those who arrive 15 minutes prior to showtime. W2s are available at the ACME booths between 90 and 30 minutes prior to each show:

1. At the Acme Booth located near Brigadoon at the gondola base.
2. At the Acme Booth next to Chuck Jones’ Cinema in the Mountain Village plaza.

W2s are distributed to all passholders (Acmes excepted), who are advised to secure one for the show they plan on attending. Any available seats after all passholders have been seated will be sold at $40 each. Passholders should plan on allowing no less than 30 minutes travel time from the base of the gondola to ensure entry into Chuck Jones’ Cinema.

One day Ken Meyer’s hand became cold. Then hot. Then his joints began to harden. A doctor delivered the news: systemic sclerosis, the most disabling form of scleroderma. Confronted with the vastness of this life-threatening autoimmune disease, Meyer found comfort and spiritual connection with the abstract works of the late Swiss-German painter Paul Klee, who also suffered from (undiagnosed) scleroderma. Emboldened by this newfound kinship, Meyer takes us on a deeply personal journey through his life with the disease, contrasting Klee’s bold compositions with his own treatments, stabilizations, surgeries and stream of consciousness. With achingly touching flourishes of self-deprecating humor, Meyer captures the undeniable joys in the everyday while face to face with his own mortality. ANGEL APPLICANT is the gift of life. –FA (U.S., 2023, 74m) In person: Ken Meyer
Backlot

G  Little Girl Blue

In the wake of her mother Carole’s suicide, filmmaker Mona Achache discovers an expansive archive of journals, photographs, notes and recorded conversations she left behind. Mona chooses to grapple with her profound grief by embarking on a journey to piece together the puzzle her mother left behind. She enlists Marion Cotillard to portray her mother and embody her words, leading to a powerful, gripping resurrection in hybrid documentary form. Blending truth with interpretation, Achache’s startlingly innovative film dissects the complexities of mother-daughter relationships and the darkness within intellectual posturing. She uncovers hard-to-comprehend secrets, shame and the artistic plight of a poised but often self-destructive woman. Cotillard’s transformative performance brings the complex, wounded Carole to life, allowing her a kind of reconciliation and second chance. –FA (France, 2023, 95m)

H  Musica!

The Oscar-winning filmmakers Rob Epstein and Jeffrey Friedman have become treasured musicologists, first with their loving biography LINDA RONSTADT: THE SOUND OF MY VOICE (2019) and then with TAYLOR MAC’S 24-DECADE HISTORY OF POPULAR MUSIC (2022). Now, they turn their cameras towards Cuba, profiling four students at the Amadeo Roldan Conservatory. Though it has long been the nation’s most prestigious music school in a music-crazy nation, the conservatory struggles to maintain instruments for their students. Enter Horns for Havana, a New York-based initiative that brings parts and instrument-repair expertise to the island. Epstein and Friedman spent four years following four recipients of Horns from Havana instruments: Kevin, Lili, Rodrigo and Dariana. Though they come from widely divergent backgrounds, each shares a driving ambition to grow as a musician, even as daily life in Cuba becomes more challenging. –TFF (U.S., 2023, 72m) In person: Rob Epstein, Judy Epstein, David Gage

I  Notes From Sheepland

Cara Holmes’ first documentary feature bursts with candid observations of the lipstick-wearing, always swearing, no-nonsense artist and shepherd, Orla Barry. Through her fields, her digital diaries, and the pedigree sheep she cares for, we discover how the art is in the doing. Holmes’ storytelling is a revelation, with bold framing and choice of shots that are exhilarating to watch. Her relationship with her subject always feels fresh and authentic. It’s a film of great wisdom and wit, insight and intelligence, with a flock of sheep thrown in. Let’s call it A Portrait of an Artist as Shepherdess. –GH (Ireland, 2023, 70m)

J  Room 999

In 1982, Wim Wenders rented a motel room in Cannes and filmed 16 filmmakers—Werner Herzog, Steven Spielberg, Jean-Luc Godard, Rainer Werner Fassbinder and Michelangelo Antonioni among them—as they answered questions about the future of cinema. Forty years later, Lubna Playoust has repeated this productive and fascinating experiment with a new generation of filmmakers. David Cronenberg, Asghar Farhadi, Davy Chou, Claire Denis, Paolo Sorrentino, Lynne Ramsay and Ruben Östlund weigh in on digital technology, streaming, the new prestige of TV and what, on its face, seems like an urgent and dire challenge: the withering of theatrical cinema. –LG (France, 2023, 85m) In person: Lubna Playoust

K  Zinzindurrunkarratz

Basque curator-director Oskar Alegría found his father’s Super-8 camera, two reels of unused film, and two pieces of footage in storage, intact after 41 years. One home movie captured a long-ago family New Year’s party, and is cut off before Alegría’s grandfather shares a wish for the upcoming year. Another features Alegría’s dad. To weave these fragments of the past together, the filmmaker travels with Paolo, an adorable donkey, down the country roads his father once traversed, recording the last vestiges of Basque country life. The result is a deeply personal, mostly silent essay on the passage of time. Alegría summons a metaphor: the Japanese practice of using gold to repair broken objects. Together, the shards are joined in a spellbinding bridging of family and tradition, bringing together a father and a son. –RD (Spain, 2023, 89m) In person: Oskar Alegría

The Telluride Film Festival wishes to thank KATRINE and BILL FORMBY for their 20-year preservation efforts in bringing the Nugget building back to its former glory and for generously donating to the Telluride Film Festival Capital Campaign to assist in the purchase of the Nugget Building.

Student Programs

Student Symposium

Made possible in part by a grant from Golden Globes

This program provides 50 graduate and undergraduate students with a weekend-long immersion in cinema. Participants watch and discuss movies with Festival guests and Symposium faculty.

City Lights Project

Sponsored by Participant

This program builds on the success of the Student Symposium, expanding the personal and professional horizons of 15 high school students and five teachers from three schools. City Lights participants experience the Festival through screenings and intensive discussions with Telluride’s special guests.

FilmLAB

In partnership with the American Film Institute, exceptional AFI Fellows learn from world-class filmmakers in a masterclass setting and enjoy a special “filmmaker” experience of the festival.

FilmSCHOLAR

Created in conjunction with the University of Wisconsin, this program was designed to encourage a new generation of film writers. Young film scholars and aspiring critics participate in a weekend-long immersion in cinema and have the opportunity to learn from some of the finest voices in the field.

An Agnès Celebration:
The Gleaners and I + Uncle Yanco + Black Panthers
5/Mon 3:45PM
Three of our favorite films by Agnès Varda, a patron saint of the Telluride Film Festival. THE GLEANERS AND I (France, 2000, 82m) celebrates scavengers who find treasures tossed from farms, washed up on beaches, in dumpsters and on urban trees. UNCLE YANCO (France-U.S., 1968, 19m), Agnès’ first meeting with a distant relative, facilitated by our co-founder Tom Luddy; and BLACK PANTHERS (France-U.S., 1970, 28m), an invaluable in-the-moment documentary about the activist organization, featuring Huey P. Newton, Stokely Carmichael and Eldridge Cleaver. In person: Rosalie Varda

Patatutopia
Sheridan Opera House Gallery
10AM–6PM/Thursday to Monday/Free
An installation by Agnès Varda. A video triptych in celebration of the most modest vegetable in the world: the potato. On the central screen, heart-shaped potatoes breathe. They are old, shriveled and wrinkled, yet they have re-germinated. On the side screens, variations of rootlets, germs and regrowth. On the ground, 700 kilos of potatoes.

Labor Day Picnic
Town Park/Monday 11AM–1PM
Join us at the world’s loveliest picnic area: Telluride’s Town Park. Your hearty meal and a bowl of ice cream will be followed by another treat: the weekend’s final seminar!
For all passholders
Strange Way of Life + The Golden West
H/Fri 4PM Q&A
In STRANGE WAY OF LIFE, Pedro Almodóvar offers us two gunfighters (Ethan Hawke and Pedro Pascal) who meet up after years apart to test an earlier connection. A gay Western? It’s first and unapologetically a Western, unironically echoing John Sturges and Sergio Leone as it embeds male desire into quintessential Western themes. Hawke and Pascal have powerful chemistry. And that ending ... few short films have left us yearning to see the feature-length version (Spain, 2023, 31m). THE GOLDEN WEST stars Eileen Walsh and Aoife Duffin as two sisters who’ve barely escaped the worst of the Irish famine and are now hunting for gold in North Wales. Destitute, driven by hunger and isolation, they burst into bitterly funny and eloquent fits of frustration and cruelty. The Oscar-winning writer-directors Ross White and Tom Berkeley have created something radical: the first Western decisively influenced by Samuel Beckett. –LG (Ireland-U.K., 2023, 24m)
In person: Ethan Hawke, Ross White, Tom Berkeley

Reality
M/Sun 4PM Q&A
On June 3, 2017, the 25-year-old Air Force veteran and intelligence contractor Reality Winner woke to a surprise: two FBI agents. Over the course of the next few hours, she was interrogated. Did she leak classified information about election interference to a left-leaning publication? The acclaimed playwright Tina Satter wrote her screenplay using only dialogue from the transcript. It’s a constraint that leaves Satter to convey meaning through a dazzling series of visual fits of frustration and cruelty. The Oscar-winning writer-directors Ross White and Tom Berkeley have created something radical: the first Western decisively influenced by Samuel Beckett. –LG (Ireland-U.K., 2023, 24m)
In person: Tina Satter

The La Roue Breakfast Club
M/Fri 9AM - M/Sat 9AM - M/Sun 9AM - M/Mon 9AM
Never released in the United States, Abel Gance’s mind-bogglingly ambitious film LA ROUE remains a high point in cinema history. The story follows a train engineer who saves a baby during a wreck and raises her as his own, alongside his son. As the girl matures, she develops feelings for the boy she thinks is her brother; when she flees, the engineer becomes even more obsessed with her. Shot on locations throughout France, LA ROUE is filled with visionary experiments—quick cuts, wild juxtapositions, almost abstract compositions—intended to summon the psychology of the characters. It was one of the most influential films of its era, a textbook for Soviet filmmakers, and admired by radical art makers. “The first film that really impressed me,” Akira Kurosawa once said, “was LA ROUE.” (France, 1923, 424m)
Shown in chapters each morning; breakfast treats and coffee will be provided.

NINÓN SEVILLA REMEMBERED
Ninón Sevilla left her native Cuba for Mexico and immediately became an icon of the rumbera genre—widely popular musical melodrama films featuring lush dance numbers and intricate, intense storylines. Her ebullient personality and unrestrained sensuality was channeled into films by preeminent Mexican auteurs (Alberto Gout, Emilio Fernández, Roberto Gavaldón) and made François Truffaut a fan. Sevilla also played a key—if uncredited—behind-the-scenes role, choosing directors and helping to finance and shape the films’ artistic vision. These two essential works of Mexican cinema’s Golden Era feature luminous cinematography by legendary photographer Gabriel Figueroa and are newly restored thanks to filmmaker Viviana García Besné and archivist Peter Conheim. Presented by Viviana García Besné

Víctimas del Pecado
M/Thu 8:15PM
Emilio Fernández’s sublime classic of post-war Mexican cinema melds noir, melodrama and elaborate musical numbers. After cabaret dancer Rosa (Sevilla) rescues a baby from a dumpster and raises him against the wishes of her pimp (the memorable Rodolfo Acosta), she’s forced into streetwalking. A sympathetic club-owner offers a glimmer of hope, but can she fend off the vengeful pimp? A feverish trip through the Mexico City underworld. –MF (Mexico, 1951, 90m)

Llévame en Tus Brazos
M/Sat 4PM
This rare amalgam of social realism and stylized melodrama by the politically attuned Julio Bracho tackles the exploitation of workers who, in perpetual debt to business owners, were often forced to “pay” with their own daughters. Sevilla plays a young woman who leaves her happiness and home for Mexico City in an attempt to settle her father’s debts. The actress initiated the project at Cinematográfica Calderón, hired Bracho and ensured that it resisted becoming escapist fare. The result: a potent, ahead-of-its-time story of women trying to take back their power, one that mirrors her own experiences. –MF (Mexico, 1954, 92m)

Poster signing
Brigadoon/Sun 1PM
Luke Dorman returns to Telluride with the poster of all posters: a wild, visionary compilation of festival icons past. He’ll sign yours, which is sure to be a collectible, and you can share your story of a favorite poster from year’s past.
The Nugget Project

The next 50 years of the Telluride Film Festival depends on you!

Give now to complete the SHOW’s $25M capital campaign — we are so close!
The Nugget Project is our future.

Cinema transports us, brings us joy and serves as a vehicle for human understanding, moving us toward greater empathy and compassion for one another. The Nugget Project achieves the Telluride Film Festival’s decades-long dream to create a permanent, historic and beautiful home for this alchemy, and will be a year-round base for our nationally recognized education and filmmaker residency programs.
